Rite to Life Banquet Set for October 13–Melissa Ohden as Speaker

Melissa Ohden is the survivor of a failed saline infusion abortion in 1977. Despite the initial concerns regarding Melissa’s future after surviving the attempt to end her life and being born alive at approximately six months gestation, she has not only survived but thrived. With a Master’s Degree in Social Work, she has worked in the fields of substance abuse, mental health, domestic violence/sexual assault counseling, and child welfare.

Melissa was formerly a College Outreach Speaker with Feminists for Life, traveling to college campuses to share her story while advocating for resources and support for pregnant and parenting college students and advocating for the rights of the unborn. In 2011, Melissa was named Patron of Real Choices Australia, after her first tour of Australia prompted widespread awareness of Melissa’s positive message and life’s work. Melissa will continue to work with Real Choices Australia and organizations across Australia to ensure that women and men are provided real choices and supports that are life-affirming, while sharing the true reality of abortion with others and working to save the lives of children just like her.

The birth of Olivia, her first child, in 2008, prompted awareness that Olivia would not have come into existence if the abortion would have succeeded in ending her life. After years of searching for her biological family and offering them forgiveness for the decision that was made to end her life, Melissa’s story, and her life, is so much more than one of survival. Melissa’s story is one about the beauty of God’s grace in our lives, about the power of love, about the hope for joy and healing in the midst of grief and loss, and about the transformational power of forgiveness and in answering God’s call for your life. Fulfilling the purpose that she believes God set out for her when He saved her from the certain death of the abortion attempt, Melissa is truly a voice for the voiceless.

Right To Life Banquet Set For Thursday October 13 at Simon J. Graber Complex:

Daviess Co. RTL has announced that Melissa Ohden will be the Main Speaker at this year’s RTL Banquet which will be held on Thursday Evening October 13 at the Simon J. Graber Complex off the Odon Cannelburg Road. The Banquet will begin at 6:30 PM with the colors presented by a combined group from the Washington and Loogootee K of C Honor Guard. The Banquet has been attended by over 600 people over the last several years and continues to be one of the largest pro-life events in Southern Indiana. In the next month or so, RTL will be mailing out information to the Table Hostess. Tickets will be $15 each.

Roy Litwiler Wins Donna Gentry Memorial Scholarship

Shown here is Roy Litwiler (center) as he is presented the Donna Gentry Memorial Scholarship by Michelle Rainey (left) and Sharon Jones (right). Litwiler just graduated from Washington Catholic High School and will attend University of Southern Indiana this fall and will major in Art and minor in Music. He is the son of Roy Sr. and Betty Litwiler of Washington. Making the presentation was Michelle Rainey who served on the Selection Committee along with Daviess County Right To Life Vice President Sharon Jones and Jana Traylor who also served on the Selection Committee. This is the first year for the Scholarship as it is named after long time Right To Life Advocate Donna Gentry who worked in the Pro-Life movement for many years in our community.

Abortion: America's Moral Disintegration

For the past thirty-nine years, the United States has faced its greatest moral controversy since slavery. Since the Supreme Court case Roe v. Wade in 1973, it has been legal for a woman to terminate her pregnancy through abortion. Abortion is the number one cause of death in the United States, more than heart disease and cancer combined. What is happening to American society and culture because of this dreadful but legal practice?

In today's society, people are no longer expected to take responsibility for their actions. For instance, if two young people have sex, they no longer have to bring a child into this world if pregnancy occurs. Birth control and contraceptives are used to prevent pregnancy, and if those don't work, the girl can get an abortion. God created sex for procreation, but now, it is only used to satisfy people's urges. In today's society, if it feels good, it should be done, and any consequences of the action don't have to be accepted.

There are several reasons that parents use to justify their abortions. One such reason is that they are unable to financially or emotionally support a child due to lack of maturity or experience. In this case, the parents just need to let God take care of them, and He will if they ask. Another reason is that their baby will have a defect, in which case they won't be able to handle the setbacks of having a handicapped child. This case is just selfishness on the parents' part; parents seek the "American dream," which is the idea of having two or more healthy children, a nice house, and a nice job. To them, having a child with disabilities is just an obstruction in their plan, which is "more important" than God's plan. Adoption is always an option; there are many loving couples who are willing to care for children but may not be able to biologically produce them. However, that still means that the woman must endure the physical pains and discomforts of childbearing, and society says that if pain can be avoided, it should.

Because of abortion, there is no longer respect for human life. The second that the sperm and the egg meet, a human life is created. Therefore, no other human should take away what God has created, from "the womb to the tomb." Abortion, doctor-assisted suicide, capital punishment, and embryonic stem cell research all unjustly take away life, just as murder is seen in the eyes of the law. However, respect for life in America has depleted since abortion was made legal.

In today's society, people "play God" by trying to control their own destinies. Instead of trusting in God's direction, they do what they want in order to satisfy their own interests. Abortion is one of the ways people put themselves before God and others. If a woman doesn't want her baby, she can just get rid of it, and no legal consequences will transpire. According to the Minnesota Citizens Concerned for Life group, fifty million abortions have been performed in the United States since Roe v. Wade—that's more than one-sixth of America's current population. America is morally destroying itself through establishing this self-centered culture of death.

New Bishop Charles Thompson Installed as 5th Bishop of Evansville Diocese

Shown here is the new Bishop Charles Thompson as he leaves the Installation Ceremonies and Mass that installed him as the 5th Bishop of the Evansville Diocese. It is estimated that between 7 to 9 thousand people witnessed the historic ceremonies held in Roberts Municipal Stadium in Evansville on Wednesday afternoon. The Ceremony began at 3 PM Evansville time and concluded around 6 PM. For those of us who witnessed the special event it was moving and truly inspiring. Bishop Thompson will replace Bishop Gerald Gettlefinger who retired at the mandatory age of 75.

Bishop Thompson is 50 years of age and could serve until the age of 75. As many as 18 Bishops and over 100 priests took part in the ceremony as well as local Priests Father Joseph Erbacher from Loogootee, Father James Koressel of Montgomery, Father Gordon Mann of Washington and retired Priest Father Leo Keisel of Loogootee and Father Ken Graehler of Washington as well as Deacons and clergy in the Diocese. Several people from Loogootee and the Daviess-Martin County churches attended the installation of the new Bishop.

Local Right To Life groups as well as the State Right To Life Organization are eagerly awaiting the new Bishop to take control and put his stamp on the Evansville Diocese as this is a very important position and could have an impact on local Right To Life Groups. It is hoped that with the installation of the new Bishop for the Evansville Diocese it will create a new spirit of co-operation between the Right To Life Groups and the Catholic Diocese in Southwestern Indiana. Bishop Charles Thompson was installed on June 29 at Roberts Stadium in Evansville.

This problem in the past developed when the Indiana Right To Life's position to "not" endorse any Democrat Candidates for public office because of the Democratic leadership's strong pro-abortion position. The former Speaker Pat Bauer blocked all pro-life legislation in previous years, but this year after his party's defeat at the polls and the take over by Republicans the Pro-Life movement passed more legislation than ever before. For years so called pro-life Democrats would not stand up to their party bosses and kept re-electing Pat Bauer as their speaker. That changed when the Indiana Right To Life refused to support any Democrats until they changed leadership. In the long run many people now see what the Right To Life Organization was trying to do and other State Right To Life Organizations may follow suit and do the same thing.

Emmit Thombelson Wins RTL Baby Contest

Shown here is Emmit Thombelson (9 months old) who was the winner of the Daviess County Right To Life Baby Contest that ended on May 30. Emmit is being held by his mother Lindsey Thombelson (left).

Also pictured is Lindsey's two other children Tessa (Front) and Tiegan (Back). The other daughter Tyra was not available when the picture was taken. To the right is Jana Traylor who was in charge of the Baby Contest for Daviess County Right To Life. Emmit was also a winner of $100 from Daviess County Right To Life.

Congressman Mike Pence Meets Son of Local People in Iraq

Shown here is Congressman Mike Pence (center) with Lynn Greene (right) and her husband Jim Greene (left) when they met Congressman Pence while he was in town to endorse Joe Wellman for Mayor of Washington on Friday. Congressman Pence met Lynn Greene's son, Dave Newland, in Iraq several years ago while the Congressman was on a fact finding mission in that area of Iraq. The Congressman never forgot that meeting, and when he met Newland's mother he said he was honored to have met her son. The Congressman said they spoke of the good things in Washington and one was the hamburgers at the White Steamer. The Congressman said in his travels to Washington, Indiana, it was one of the best hamburgers he has ever had. Dave Newland has since returned from Iraq and has been redeployed to Korea and now has over 20 years in the military service. Newland is the son of John Newland of St. Louie, MO.

Obama Faces Hard Times With Catholic Voters Over Abortion

When Barack Obama won 54 percent of the Catholic vote in the 2008 presidential election, commentators barely noticed that John McCain won a majority of the religiously-active Catholic vote (51 percent to 49 percent). This was a small margin, to be sure, but it doesn't bode well for the 2012 presidential race, after all the worst predictions of Obama's support of abortion became reality. Religiously-active Catholics are those who report attending

Mass at least once a week. Weekly attendance at religious services is the accepted definition of a religiously-active voter in any faith tradition. Studies of exit polls going back to the '60s tell the story of how these Catholic voters lost their loyalty to the Democratic Party, becoming either reliable Republicans or swing voters with a preference for socially conservative candidates, e.g. the "Reagan Democrats."

Supreme Court Justice Elena Kagan

From Life Issues—The abortion industry, its supporters and the Obama administration are diligently working hand-in-hand. The two have enthusiastically coordinated their efforts to ensure that Mr. Obama's policy of abortion-on-demand will be protected for a long time to come.

Take, for example, the president's newest pro-abortion Supreme Court justice: Elena Kagan...

According to 28 USC 455, the Supreme Court justice must recuse herself from judging a case in which her impartiality can be reasonably questioned. This law also states that a justice must also recuse herself if—while in a previous government service—she served as counsel or adviser on the case or expressed an opinion about its merits.

Despite being taken to task by watchdogs like the Media Research Center and Judicial Watch, the Justice Department has refused to respond to most of the numerous Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) requests. They seek to uncover Ms. Kagan's part in Obamacare as the former Solicitor General. After partially responding to scant few of these requests, the department's email correspondence suggests that Ms. Kagan had some part in shaping the legislation's defense.

Following a letter signed by 49 House members that urged an investigation into contradictory statements by the Justice Department, the House Judiciary Committee is now launching a probe into the extent of Ms. Kagan's involvement.

For those who've worked alongside of Ms. Kagan, it's triggered a scramble to spin their questionable correspondence on the matter. It looks like a cover-up in the making.

It's no secret that the Supreme Court was monumental in sealing the death warrant for over 54-million unborn babies since 1973. However, if Ms. Kagan is allowed to escape clear legal hurdles that might reveal her conflict of interest; she'll be just one more puzzle piece to ensuring that government-sanctioned abortion will be prolonged for years to come through Obamacare.

With so many pro-life victories this year alone, we can't afford to take what would be a monumental step backward in fighting for the unborn. We need your help to press our government officials to hold a full and complete investigation into Ms. Kagan. Please contact the members of the House Judiciary Committee by email or phone (202-225-3951) and urge them to quickly move forward on this crucial matter.

Poll: Obama Loses 1/3 of Hispanic Support, Abortion a Reason

A new poll shows pro-abortion President Barack Obama has lost about one-third of the support he had from Hispanics in the 2008 presidential election, and one pro-life Hispanic leader says abortion is the reason why.

Obama hosted a meeting at the White House for Latino groups that focus on political advocacy, but, on the same day, Gallup released a new poll showing his Hispanic support down about 30 percent over the course of the last 18 months. In December 2009, Obama received a 73 percent favorable rating from Hispanics, but that dropped to 52 percent at the end of June.

The news is bad for Obama and his re-election prospects, as he is counting on winning states like Florida and New Mexico, which have large Hispanic populations, in order to retain his stranglehold on the White House. The polling results are good news for Republicans who will be voting for a nominee to challenge the pro-abortion president.

"The seemingly unstoppable hemorrhage of Latino support for this administration comes as no surprise to anyone but the President and his staff. Hispanics have witnessed two and a half years of broken promises and radical social experimentation that goes against the grain of all that we believe in," he said. "Latinos as a whole are finally realizing what so many of us in the Right to Life movement have known since Obama's days as an Illinois state senator: The infanticide president and his extreme and out of touch abortion policies are the greatest danger to the future of the Hispanic community."

"Hispanics are weary of the Obama administration's constant pandering. Latinos see a President trying to legitimize social issues that not only hurt us as a community, but that are also an affront to our core values and traditions. We can no longer be silent as Latinos continue to abort at unprecedented and disproportionate levels," Rojas added.

Obama Appointed Judge Rules for Planned Parenthood

Recently, U.S. District Judge Tanya Walton Pratt issued a preliminary injunction in favor of Planned Parenthood in the case that the abortion giant brought against the state of Indiana over the defunding of abortion providers and the requirement that moms be informed about an unborn child's ability to feel pain.

Planned Parenthood is the largest abortion provider in the state of Indiana where more than 5,500 Hoosier babies are killed each year. With the new law, HEA 1210, Planned Parenthood stands to lose several millions of dollars of state funding for Medicaid reimbursements.

Judge Pratt, an Obama judicial nominee stated in her 44 page opinion that, "the public interest" tilted in favor of Planned Parenthood at this time because "the federal government has threatened partial or total withholding of federal Medicaid dollars to the State of Indiana."

Judge Pratt had ruled against Planned Parenthood earlier this month. Once Obama threatened to stop Medicaid funds to Indiana, Judge Pratt ruled for Planned Parenthood.

Sources say that it is likely that Indiana Attorney General Greg Zoeller will file an appeal. The American Center for Law & Justice, Alliance Defense Fund, and the Thomas More Society have all said that the Indiana law defunding abortion providers is constitutional. It is disconcerting that Judge Pratt was swayed by the Obama Administration position of support for Planned Parenthood. However, more than $10 million was given to pro-abortion candidates in 2010 from the Planned Parenthood political action committee. President Obama is the most pro-abortion president in the history of the U.S.

Indiana Right to Life President and CEO Mike Fichter said, "We are deeply disappointed that today's ruling brushes aside the will of the Indiana legislature. This ruling opens the pipeline for our tax dollars to flow back into the hands of Indiana's largest abortion provider and denies women seeking abortions the right to know about an unborn child's ability to feel pain. We are confident that Indiana's right to defund Planned Parenthood and to inform women about the facts of fetal pain will eventually be upheld in the courts, but it is troubling to know that in the meantime, Indiana is being forced to subsidize a business that profits from over 5,500 abortions every year and women are being denied key information they deserve."

As Indiana continues the legal battle to stop taxpayer funding of Medicaid providers who provide abortions, a wave of defunding abortion providers and Planned Parenthood is spreading across the U.S.

Here is the list of states that are defunding Planned Parenthood:

Indiana	$2,000,000
Kansas	$330,000
New Jersey	$1,200,000
Wisconsin	$1,000,000
Texas	$47,000,000
North Carolina	$434,000
New Hampshire	$1,800,000
TOTAL	$54,000,000

We remain resolute in our mission to protect life! Abortion is NOT Health Care!

Pray to end abortion!

New Bills go into effect as a record 5 Pro-Life Bills in one Bill HB-1210

Indiana Right to Life is applauding the Indiana House & Senate for passing a record number of pro-life bills during this legislative session.

This pro-life legislation will place Indiana on the map as the first state to stop taxpayer funding of abortion centers like Planned Parenthood. This bill will set precedent and give courage to other states to follow in the footsteps of the great state of Indiana. Here is a summary of the bills that passed.

- ✧ Defunds Planned Parenthood and all other abortion centers from receiving IN State Income tax revenue.
- ✧ Protects pain-capable unborn children beginning at 20-weeks.

- ✧ Opts-out Indiana from abortion coverage under state health exchanges required under the new federal health law.
- ✧ Requires a mom to see her baby on ultrasound, unless she declines in writing.
- ✧ Requires doctors who do abortions to maintain local hospital admitting privileges.

While Planned Parenthood is trying to say their loss of funding will hurt the poor, consider this:

- ✧ Low income Hoosiers will still receive the same medical benefits, just not at Planned Parenthood. Bottom line is that the state has the right to select its vendors and that no funds are being cut, only denied to Planned Parenthood because of their abortion business.

- ❖ Planned Parenthood can stop its abortion business at any time and be eligible for funding!
- ❖ Planned Parenthood aborted more than 7,000 Hoosier children last year!

All women's health services provided by Planned Parenthood can be obtained at other health clinics in southwest Indiana and most at no charge. If Planned Parenthood wants to keep funding from the state then stop the abortions. After all abortion is not healthcare, it is the intentional killing of unborn boys and girls.

The bill carries provisions that Indiana's abortion reporting requirements be amended to require that any abortion done on a girl under the age of 14 be reported to the department of child services within three days of the abortion in order to streamline the reporting of child sexual abuse. The bill also requires that pregnancy termination reports list the age of the baby's father as another provision to help authorities identify potential cases of child sexual abuse. Another provision of the bill will create a greater degree of accountability for abortion providers in reporting abortions in accordance with state law by requiring that the date the report was received by the state be included on the report.

Abortions done in Indiana are required to be reported within six months of the abortion, but current Indiana abortion reports have made that provision virtually unenforceable by failing to provide the date on which the report was received by the state. Each failure to report an abortion in Indiana is a Class B misdemeanor. "These are positive changes that will better facilitate the reporting of child sexual abuse in Indiana while holding abortion providers accountable for timely reporting of abortions," Indiana Right to Life president Mike Fichter stated. The bill will now go to Governor Mitch Daniels who is expected to sign the new abortion reporting provisions into law.

Earlier this year, Indiana's largest abortion business, Planned Parenthood of Indiana, reported 5,580 abortions done in 2010, an increase of more than 2% in the number of surgical and drug-induced abortions it did in 2009. The figure is almost 130 more than the 5,452 reported abortions for 2009. Planned Parenthood of Indiana annually does more than 50% of the total chemical and surgical abortions done in Indiana, when comparing its own figures to those of abortions done annually statewide as shown by the state health department.

The increase in abortions also came despite the fact that Planned Parenthood of Indiana closed five centers after an undercover video showed it covering up a potential case of statutory rape. Last year alone, according to Planned Parenthood's own annual report, it received more than $363 million in revenue from government grants and contracts. During that same time frame, it did 324,008 abortions, a 5.8 percent increase from the previous year, which also set a record high at that time.

More Americans identify themselves as "Pro-Life" than "Pro-Choice" according to a Gallup Poll, conducted May 7-10, 2009. In this poll, 51% of Americans call themselves "pro-life" and 42% of Americans call themselves "pro-choice" on the issue of abortion. Gallup began asking this question in 1995, and this is the first time that the majority of Americans identify themselves as "pro-life."

Planned Parents' Efforts to Reduce the Minority Population

From Life Issues—Planned Parenthood's efforts to eradicate unborn babies through abortion is an open secret, but their handcrafted strategy of concentrating on minority communities is a lesser-known fact needing full exposure.

Despite coming a long way since the Civil Rights era, African Americans still face a relentless threat to their rights. Only this time, it comes from the largest abortion chain in America. At a rate of 3-5 times more than Hispanics and Whites, African American babies represent the biggest cash cow for Planned Parenthood's abortion business.

In order to shine the light on this new form of "black death," the National Black Pro-Life Coalition (NBPC) has created a very dynamic video entitled EPIDEMIC. It visual-izes some mind-blowing statistics, detailing the extent of the abortion industry's destructive assault on the African American community.

"Abortion kills 1,000 black babies every day in the United States. Over 15,000,000 have been killed since 1973. That's more than the entire populations of Los Angeles, Detroit, Atlanta, Boston, Dallas, Washington DC, Oakland, Houston, Philadelphia, Chicago, Miami, and Baltimore COMBINED. In New York City, home of Planned Parenthood, 60% of all black pregnancies are aborted," the one-minute video notes.

The video also points out that the abortion epidemic has never made a dent in reducing poverty, healthcare disparities, or ‘unintended’ pregnancy rates. Instead, it’s only been successful in wreaking havoc by reducing the US black population from 54 million down to 39 million.

Co-founded by Life Issues Institute’s Director of Urban Outreach, Arnold M. Culbreath, NBPC plans to launch an official campaign during the week of July 4th. Along with releasing this first video, it will also commemorate the signing of the Civil Rights Act.

Let’s make this amazing video go viral. Please share this clip with email lists and your social networks on Facebook and Twitter to educate them about the true impact of abortion on these shattered communities.

Pro-Abortion Group: Record Pro-Life Laws Passed in 2011

A national pro-abortion organization that tracks abortion statistics and is a former affiliate of the Planned Parenthood abortion business says 2011 has already set a record for the most number of pro-life laws approved by state legislatures. Just halfway through the year, pro-life lawmakers have already exponentially increased the number of pro-life laws on the books, according to the Guttmacher Institute, which issued a report decrying the number of laws protecting women and unborn children—which will undoubtedly result in reducing abortions in the states where they have been adopted.

“In the first six months of 2011, states enacted 162 new provisions related to reproductive health and rights. Fully 49% of these new laws seek to restrict access to abortion services, a sharp increase from 2010, when 26% of new laws restricted abortion. The 80 abortion restrictions enacted this year are more than double the previous record of 34 abortion restrictions enacted in 2005—and more than triple the 23 enacted in 2010. All of these new provisions were enacted in just 19 states,” Guttmacher indicates.

The 2011 state legislative season is rapidly drawing to a close, with only 10 state legislatures remaining in session. Additional states are likely to adjourn in the coming weeks, Guttmacher says. But 2011 has already been a record year when it comes to protecting women and unborn children.

Have You Renewed Your Membership or Made a Donation to Help Stop Abortion?

When the new administration took office, they said their first priority was to pass a law that will remove all restrictions on abortion. By doing this on the federal level, they would remove all restrictions on abortion and the Federal government would now be in control of the abortion issue. All Hospitals would be required to close or lose funding if they did not perform abortions. Tax payers would once again be required to fund abortions. Some Churches are now joining us in this effort, and we wish they had informed their members of this before the last election as this effort has become necessary only because of the election of Barak Obama. The Pro-Life Movement had warned voters and churches before the election this could happen, and now some churches suddenly realize their silence or lack of action on this matter has led to this emergency. What can we do to prevent this from happening? Contact your Federal elected officials (Senators and Congressmen) and ask them to vote against all Abortion related bills. This will mean no choice for the children that will be killed by abortion. For Addresses of our Elected Officials, see above on this page of this Newsletter.
