2020 Right to Life Banquet Speaker Announced, Banquet will be held on Thursday Oct. 15

The local Daviess and Martin Right to Life Groups are pleased to announce that U.S. Senator Mike Braun will be the main speaker at the Right to Life Banquet which will be held on Thursday, October 15, at the Simon J. Graber Building off the Odon/Cannelburg Road near Odon. Senator Mike Braun was elected in November of 2018 when he defeated former Senator Joe Donnelly. Prior to that, Mike Braun was the State Representative for District 63 from 2014 to 2017 when he resigned to run for U.S. Senate. In the primary of 2018 Mike Braun defeated two sitting congressman to win the right to challenge Joe Donnelly for the Senate seat. Senator Mike Braun has been a strong supporter of the Right to Life and for protection of the unborn since his early days in the Indiana House. This is one of the reasons the selection committee was anxious to have Mr. Braun as the banquet speaker.

The banquet will be the third Thursday of October at the same place it has been since 2007. Please watch our web site (www.daviesscountyrtil.com) and area newspapers for additional announcements.

We Remember Henry “Hank” Mitchell

We would like to take this opportunity to remember Hank Mitchell who passed away on Easter Sunday April 12 at his home surrounded with his family. Hank and his late wife Sue Mitchell who passed away the day after Christmas in 2014 were strong supporters of the Right to Life Movement. They always supported the Right to Life organization by their donations and by the vocal support either at Right to Life Banquets or just an encouraging word of support when you would meet them. For me that meant so much to hear the kind words that kept me going. Hank was 91 years old when he passed away and was still active until the last year or so. We extend our sympathy to his son Mike and his daughter Barbara and both of their families. We say “Well done good and faithful servant, the Lord has prepared a place for you!”

In Memory of Betty Sneed who Passed away on Feb. 13, 2020

We want to extend our Deepest Sympathy to Betty’s Children & Her Family. Betty served as Secretary on the Daviess County Right to Life Board for many years and she was a strong believer in the Right to Life for All God’s Children. We will always remember Betty’s contribution to the cause of preserving Life. May God Grant her Eternal Peace!

Joe Biden Is No Moderate on Abortion, He Supports Killing Babies in Abortions Up to the Time of Birth

Micaiah Bilger, Washington, DC

Joe Biden is inching ahead in the Democratic primary after winning in Idaho, Michigan, Missouri and Mississippi on Tuesday. The former vice president is being portrayed as a moderate compared to fellow Democrat presidential candidate Bernie Sanders, a socialist from Vermont. But Biden is far from moderate on abortion and many other issues. As the Free Beacon described him, “Biden’s seeming moderation only reflects the standards of an increasingly radical Democratic Party.”

Boston Globe columnist Jeff Jacoby made a similar observation this week, writing: “Biden may seem hopelessly accommodationist to those on the Democratic Party’s leftmost fringe. But in reality, he is running on a platform far more progressive — i.e., far less moderate — than any Democratic presidential nominee in history.” On abortion, he is particularly extreme and out of touch with most Americans. His campaign website suggests that he supports abortion without restriction up to birth.

Biden recently said he would be committed to “the constitutional right to an abortion” and “reverse the Trump administration and states’ all-out assault on women’s right to choose.” He also promised to “work to codify Roe v. Wade.” The infamous U.S. Supreme Court decision made the United States one of only seven countries in the world that allows elective abortions after 20 weeks of pregnancy.

That is not where most Americans stand. Polls consistently show that most support strong limits on abortion, especially in the third trimester when babies are viable outside the womb. A recent Gallup poll found that 60 percent of Americans want abortion legal “only in a few circumstances” (39 percent) or “illegal in all circumstances” (21 percent).

Biden’s extremes do not stop there. His health care plan would expand abortions as well. The plan would codify Roe v. Wade into federal law, prohibiting states from passing even moderate restrictions that protect unborn babies from late-term abortions. It also would force insurance companies to cover abortions as “essential” health care under Obamacare.

And when it comes to taxpayer-funded abortions, a key issue for the abortion industry, Biden is with them, too. Last June, he announced that he no longer supports the Hyde amendment, which restricts taxpayer-funded abortions. Biden said he also would force American taxpayers to fund Planned Parenthood and other abortion providers by restoring the cuts President Donald Trump made to their funding.

Meanwhile, polls consistently show voters strongly oppose taxpayer-funded abortions. Ellie Bufkin at Townhall said Biden is “like a change in the wind,” and that should concern voters. “He flipped his mind after years of supporting the Hyde amendment, which blocked federal funding for abortions, because campaign adviser and actress Alyssa Milano confronted him about it. It should be of great comfort to those that want to ‘push him further to the left,’ that all you have to do is get Alyssa Milano involved,” she commented.

Elite actresses and out-of-touch career politicians do not reflect the values of the American people. Voters who believe every human life should be protected – or even those who just don’t think their tax dollars should go to the billion-dollar abortion industry – must make that clear at the voting booth this fall.

Pro-Abortion Groups That Trashed Kavanaugh Silent on Joe Biden Sexual Assault Allegations

Mary Margaret Olohan Washington, DC

Women’s groups that backed sexual assault accusations against Supreme Court Justice Brett Kavanaugh have stayed silent regarding a woman who accused former Vice President Joe Biden of sexually assaulting her.

When Christine Blasey Ford accused Kavanaugh in September 2018 of sexually assaulting her, women’s groups, including Planned Parenthood, Emily’s List, the Women’s March, the National Abortion Right’s Action League, the American Association of University Women, and the National Latina Institute for Reproductive Justice, condemned Kavanaugh and said they believed Blasey Ford.

But none of these organizations have issued statements regarding former Biden staffer Tara Read’s accusations against the presumptive Democratic presidential nominee. These organizations also did not respond to repeated requests for comment from the Daily Caller News Foundation.

The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), which was vociferous in condemning Kavanaugh, has also not responded to a request for comment on its silence on Read’s allegations against Biden.

Quote from Abortion Activist: President Donald Trump is the “Single Greatest Threat” to Abortion

Steven Ertelt, Washington, DC

President Donald Trump has accumulated what most pro-life groups believe is the most pro-life record of any president, and that’s after just four years in the White House.

As Marjorie Dannenfelser of the Susan B. Anthony List put it: President Trump’s leadership as the most effective pro-life president in American history has been a game-changer. As evidenced in his historic address at this year’s March for Life, he has truly embraced our movement and delivered on his promise to be a pro-life president; now we will deliver for him at the ballot box.

President Trump’s support for life pervades his administration and his policies. He is unwavering in defense of the unborn and he has put his words into action. The Trump administration expanded the Mexico City policy to stop the exportation of abortion around the world on the American people’s dime – going further than even pro-life icon Ronald Reagan. He protected pro-life health care workers and institutions, introducing new rules to ensure that they can’t be forced to perform or participate in abortions. The administration even stepped in to defend a Vermont nurse who was forced to participate in an elective abortion. The president has hosted abortion survivors in the Oval Office.

But what do abortion activists say about President Trump? Do the champions of killing babies in abortions believe he has worked overtime to ensure that babies are protected from brutal deaths and that Americans are protected from having to spend their tax dollars funding the abortion industry?

The answer is clearly yes. In fact, in a new interview with Newsweek, NARAL spokesperson Amanda Thayer made it clear how the abortion advocacy group feels about President Trump, calling him the “single greatest threat to reproductive freedom” and saying its number one goal is removing him from the presidency. “We are focused on ensuring he is a one-term president,” Thayer added. While abortion activists will spend tens of millions of dollars trying to defeat the president, pro-life groups are rallying around him.

The president of the upcoming March for Life was effusive in her praise for President Donald Trump in a recent interview, saying he has “done more for the pro-life movement than any president.” In one of his first acts as president, Trump reinstated and expanded the Mexico City Policy, which prohibits taxpayer funding to groups that promote or provide abortions overseas. The change defunded Planned Parenthood’s international arm of about $100 million in U.S. tax dollars.

Trump has repeatedly called out the Democratic Party’s extreme position on abortion. During his state of the union address this year, Trump slammed the governors of New York and Virginia for promoting abortion up to birth and infanticide. He also called for Congress to pass a ban on late-term abortions on babies who are capable of feeling pain.

Trump and his administration have made a number of changes to protect those who morally object to abortions, expanding conscience protections for medical workers who believe it is wrong to kill an unborn baby and increasing religious exemptions for Obamacare.

His administration also intervened to stop the United Nations from supporting abortion in a resolution about sexual violence. In 2018, under his leadership, the State Department removed references to the so-called “right” to abort an unborn baby from a global human rights report as well.

This spring, the administration also finalized a new Title X rule that requires health care entities to completely separate abortion from their taxpayer-funded services. Planned Parenthood, which already has said it will not comply, could lose about $60 million annually through the policy change. However, the abortion group is suing to block the cuts. Trump has appointed dozens of conservative judges to federal courts as well, including two to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Let Us Pray For President Trump and our Leaders!

We are asking for everyone to consider praying each day for our president and his administration. The liberal media along with Democrats, the Hollywood crowd, the anti-Christian people, and pro-abortion forces in America are working daily to resist everything President Trump tries to do. These people are trying to do everything they can to bring down this administration. They will stop at nothing to discredit the president or his administration. The bottom line: it does not matter what President Trump says or does, they will oppose him at every turn. From the first day President Trump was in office, the Democrats were looking for ways to impeach him or remove him from office any way they could. So this is no surprise as to what he is going through. That is why it is so important that we pray for the president every day, so the president can withstand the various assaults on his presidency.

We truly have a pro-life administration working for us and we need them to continue working to save the lives of the unborn. Let us continue with our prayers for President Trump. Please take time each day to lift up our president and all our elected officials in prayer. Let us pray for those who support abortion, whether an elected legislator, or those who run abortion chambers, or anyone who helps to further the killing of the unborn. Let us pray for everyone who is pro-abortion so they will be converted to support life, born and unborn!

The U.S. House of Representatives Lost One of its Last Pro-Life Democrats

By Anne Marie Williams

In a neck-and-neck race to the finish, eight-term U.S. Representative Dan Lipinski of Illinois appears to have lost his bid for re-election in the Illinois primary race on Tuesday, due in large part to his pro-life stance on abortion. National Review reported early Wednesday morning that the results from 494 of 500 total precincts suggested that Lipinski lost by a mere 3,000 votes, representing roughly a 2-3% win. Lipinski will likely be succeeded by Marie Newman, a former marketing consultant and staunch abortion advocate who secured major endorsements from abortion advocacy organizations like NARAL and EMILY's List, as well as high-profile progressive politicians such as Democratic presidential candidate Bernie Sanders of Vermont and Rep. Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez of New York. The Super Tuesday faceoff was a rematch of the 2018 primaries, in which Newman narrowly lost the 3rd Congressional District seat — which includes a large portion of Chicago and the southwest suburbs — to Lipinski.

According to the Daily Wire, polling experts suspected that the coronavirus outbreak in Illinois, which topped 100 confirmed cases on Tuesday, may have kept many senior citizens, a substantial portion of Lipinski's supporter base, at home.

The contest was notable for the in-fighting it generated within the Democratic Party of Illinois, primarily over the issue of abortion. The Daily Wire noted that members of his own party turned on Lipinski, who had voted to defund Planned Parenthood, had spoken at the Chicago March for Life as well as the Washington, D.C., March for Life — basically failing to support his party's abortion platform. Rep. Cheri Bustos, head of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, was even pressured into canceling a planned fundraiser for Lipinski.

In Illinois and nationally, pro-life Democrats face increasing ostracization from party leaders, as evidenced by former presidential candidate Pete Buttigieg's refusal to answer the question of whether there is room for pro-lifers in the Democratic Party. In January 2020, Live Action News reported on a sit-in at Lipinski's Lockport, Illinois, office by some 30 protesters opposed to his signature on a pro-life amicus brief filed in the Louisiana abortion admitting privileges case currently before the Supreme Court (June Medical Services v. Russo).

Marjorie Dannenfelser of the Susan B. Anthony List commented on the upset in a statement for National Review:

"Congressman Lipinski has long been a profile in courage, bucking the sad trend of Democrat leaders vying to be the greatest advocate of abortion. We are deeply grateful for his bravery in standing strong. The expulsion of this pro-life hero from Congress by his own party is an ominous sign for pro-life Democrats and all who long to see both major parties hold a principled stance in favor of life."

The remaining pro-life Democrats include Rep. Collin Peterson of Minnesota, Pennsylvania Senator Bob Casey, and West Virginia Senator Joe Manchin.

Virus Has Caused Closing of Churches, Schools, Businesses. Why Is Abortion Industry Open for Business?

By LifeSite News

More than 100 pro-life leaders are demanding that abortion clinics be shut down in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. They are calling on governors to shut down abortion centers still operating in defiance of public health warnings as well as state and national health directives. While authorities have moved to shut down schools, businesses, and even churches, most abortion clinics remain open for business.

According to Mark Harrington of the Ohio-based pro-life group Created Equal, who helped spearhead the effort: "Every day, abortion facilities violently end the lives of thousands of human beings. And now, by refusing to close their doors as COVID-19 wreaks havoc across the nation, they are endangering the general public, too. Not only are these facilities consuming scarce personal protective equipment, they risk spreading COVID-19 throughout their state. Furthermore, abortionists themselves are not immune to COVID-19 and some, including one in Michigan, may have already contracted the disease. These facilities also put a burden on community EMTs and hospital ERs, should they have a medical emergency at one of their locations."

In Ohio, the attorney general ordered health care providers to cease all "nonessential and elective surgical abortions" this weekend, highlighting federal guidelines released to address concerns that the ongoing pandemic will soon result in a shortage of hospital beds as well as personal protective equipment.

In fact, there is already one instance of an abortion clinic potentially contributing to the spread of COVID-19. According to John Barros, who has stood outside the Women's Health Center in Orlando, Florida, for sixteen years offering help to the women arriving there to procure abortions: "This morning a worker here verified that they had done an abortion on a lady from a cruise ship that has the Corona virus yesterday [March 16]. She is so worried and shocked that they would do it for an extra $900. I couldn't believe it really..." Barros, who has a friendly relationship with some of the clinic staffers, confirmed that he had been told twice that this had taken place, and that the staff was extremely concerned that the patient might have had the potentially deadly virus.

As this anecdote highlights, abortion clinics may become deadly places in more ways than one as they continue to defy government directives to close their doors. Their commitment to the destruction of pre-born human beings cannot be shaken—even by a pandemic.

Survivor: Soccer Star Cristiano Ronaldo Alive Today After Abortion Attempt Failed

By Nancy Flanders LiveAction

Cristiano Ronaldo, Real Madrid soccer star, single father, and current Guinness World Record holder for the most liked person on Facebook – he has over 107 million likes – was the victim of an attempted abortion.

In her biography, Mother Courage, Ronaldo's mother Dolores Aveiro says that the star athlete was "an unwanted child," and she asked doctors to abort him. The doctors, however, refused her request, so she attempted a DIY abortion. She writes that she drank boiled black beer and ran until she felt like she would drop.

Obviously her plan failed and today she says, "Everything I have, I owe to [Cristiano]."

Eventually, Ronaldo would learn that his mother tried to end his life while he was in the womb, but he's the only one who truly knows how much that knowledge has affected him. His mother says he has only joked about it, telling her, "Look Mum, you wanted to abort and now I'm the one who's pulling the purse-strings in the house."

Ronaldo's mother isn't the only woman who has regretted her decision to abort. Fortunately, new procedures allow women who immediately want to take back their abortion the ability to save their child's life.

Autumn Barnes took the first pill of the RU-486 abortion pill regimen and then decided she wanted her baby. Thankfully, Dr. Matt Harrison created the Emergency Abortion Pill Reversal Kit, and he administered progesterone in order to reverse the effects of the abortion pill. It was successful, and Barnes gave birth to a healthy baby boy.

Women who have begun second trimester D&E abortions can also have the procedure stopped, providing hope and a second chance. One such woman approached pro-life activists outside an abortion clinic and told them she wanted to stop the three-day abortion procedure she had begun. She had been pressured into aborting by her boyfriend. The activists brought her to Resurrection Medical Center where they were able to reverse the abortion.

Being labeled as "unwanted" by one individual, even if it is one of your parents, says nothing about the value of a life. Ronaldo may have been "unwanted" by his mother then, but today he is wanted by countless people, including his devoted fans who chase him down Beatles-style. And he is very much wanted by his son, and that same mother who once thought she had to abort him.

Ronaldo's new documentary released this month reveals a life that most of us can only imagine. He's arrogant and boastful, but he's also talented, hardworking, and driven. The film exposes a life full of glamour, but not a life free from pain. Ronaldo speaks openly about the alcoholism that his brother battles and that his late father struggled with. His mother adds that she was often the one who was "the victim" of her late husband's alcoholism.

But despite any struggles he may go through in life, Ronaldo is living the best way he knows how.

"I was made to be the best," he said. "That's how I live my life." A life that never would have happened and a star who never would have been born, if doctors had aborted him as his mother wished.

After Her Abortion, Woman Says: "I prayed someone would be there to stop me!"

NRL News Sarah Terzo

Pro-life activist Richard Exley told this story:

Some time ago I was speaking to a right to life rally. When I had finished, a young woman came to the front of the auditorium and asked to speak to the audience. Noting her obvious distress, I hesitated before giving her the microphone.

Tearfully she confessed that eight years earlier she had aborted her baby... The father had wanted nothing more to do with the young woman or her unborn child. In shame and desperation she had scheduled a legal and inexpensive abortion.... Trembling, she told us that on the way to the abortion clinic she had "prayed" that someone would stop her.

"If only one person has asked me not to do it," she sobbed, "my baby would be alive today."

Listening to her story, I couldn't help but wonder how many other babies have been killed simply because no one was there.

Over 70 Healthcare Professionals Urge Indiana Governor Holcomb to Halt Abortion During Pandemic, Abortion Clinics Choose to Ignore Order

By Andrew Mullally

FORT WAYNE, Indiana, April 14, 2020 (LifeSiteNews) – Over seventy Indiana health professionals, doctors, and nurses sent a letter to Gov. Eric Holcomb earlier this month asking him to halt surgical and chemical abortions during the COVID-19 crisis.

On March 30th, Holcomb issued an executive order for the State of Indiana calling on health providers, including abortion clinics, to “cancel or postpone elective and non-urgent surgical and invasive procedures” in order to conserve personal protective equipment for those fighting COVID -19. Holcomb’s order, however, directed the physician who is treating the patient to make the determination on the urgency of the procedure.

In the case of abortion, however, the abortion doctor is the person determining whether or not the procedure is essential. “It is our medical opinion that there is no such thing as an ‘urgent abortion,’” the healthcare professionals state in the letter.

The letter from 76 health professionals to Holcomb comes after abortion facilities in Indiana quickly made it known that they would not be closing their doors and would continue to perform abortions, putting patients at risk for contracting this virus while hoarding much needed medical resources. Planned Parenthood has even used social media to ask people to donate items like protective masks to their clinics.

Planned Parenthood said in a plea on social media, “Please consider donating hand sanitizer, home sewn masks, shoe covers, and surgical hats to protect our medical staff as they continue to provide care in our communities.”

The health care professionals who penned the letter maintain that the decision could not be left responsibly up to an abortion doctor who stands to gain financially from the procedure. Further, abortionists have an extremely limited relationship with the patient seeking an abortion, often leaving other health care professionals to stand in the gap during follow-up and care needed due to complications.

Abortion is creating more work for the already stretched thin medical community all focused on fighting to save lives from COVID-19.

Elizabeth Warren Now Backs Joe Biden

Although Elizabeth Warren dropped out of the presidential race a month ago, she waited until after Bernie Sanders and Barack Obama both endorsed Joe Biden before putting her own name on comments backing the former vice president’s bid against President Donald Trump. In so doing, the fake American Indian has backed the fake Catholic.

“In this moment of crisis, it’s more important than ever that the next president restores Americans’ faith in good, effective government—and I’ve seen Joe Biden help our nation rebuild. Today, I’m proud to endorse Joe Biden as President of the United States,” Warren tweeted out recently.

Warren became the laughingstock of the nation when she claimed to have Native American ancestry but later was forced to announce that a DNA test disproved the claim. In the same mold, Joe Biden claims to be a Catholic but has been taken to task time and time again for violating the pro-life tenets of the Catholic Church.

Biden claims to be Catholic and gives the impression of being a moderate Democrat, but his stance on abortion is completely out of touch with both his faith and the American people. In June, he even announced that he now supports forcing taxpayers to fund elective abortions. His presidential health care plan would expand abortions by codifying Roe v. Wade into federal law and prohibiting states from passing even moderate restrictions that protect unborn babies from late-term abortions. It also would force insurance companies to cover abortions as “essential” health care under Obamacare.
